We wonder what the educated men ftle Republican party really think of the state of affairs in the South. It is easy enough to find out what the average man of that party thinks. The rank and file rever read any hing but their own newspapers, and never real those long. unless they say things plea ing to themb'ind and both are hal inally a the b ttom of an exceedingly dirty dich. There they keep up a loud outery that they are his remarkable journey. We are mest successful people on earth; and the fervently that they are not as other people. These outeries really represent the opinions of the rag-tag and bobtail, and they drown the voice of the thinking men, who have led them on to the destruction of the South. But th se last must have some insight into the real condition of things. What in very truth do they think of their

They have had for nearly three years the full desire of their hearts in all things concerning slavery. They have abolished it. How do they like the result? For many long years they moaued over the wickedness and crnelty of oppressing a an on account of the color of his skin. Do they at Il think difference of color the ouly difference between a white man and black one?

They and their followers have had full way over all the legislation for the South. Do they like the looks of public affairs down there now? What do they think of giving votes to the negroes? How do they like the legislation of the negro conventions? Do they still think that a negro with a vote will ever raise cotton or anything else that requires continuous labor? In former years the Southern States preduced several hundred millions of dolars' worth of products of which those educated men of the North got their full share-perhaps more than their share. The negro population was as well treated on the whole as any other peasantry in he world, and much better clothed and

ed. Will it ever be so again, while the Republican party has power? Can they lation except general misery and daily increating degradation? What chance does there seem to be, even in the far distance of negro rule, that the Sta'es so ruled will ever produce anything to sell? Is it not rule is impossible?

We do not hope to get any trithful answer to these a estions, but none the less will the men of whom we speak be forced been sowing the wind and their harvest of whirlwinds is ripening for the sickle. They are talking of taking the tax off cotton, they should not only remove all taxation wise they will willingly retire and let other physicians try the cure.

with the President to hold on to the War Office in spite of Stanton, etc. He adds a story that General Grant, at a Cabinet meeting since Stant in serious atement, was badgered about this until he left in disgust; and that, after he had gone, one member of the Cabinet—name not given, and never will be given—called the General, behind his back of course, a "liar and a "eneak." This valorous Cabinet officer, if the World's story were true, certainly exhibited the genuine Democratic Under whatever circumstances the cords w re used, they can hardly be condered too strong to fit the case, if Gen eral Grant acted as falsely and perfidions'y towards the President as he is stated to lave done. And that he did thus act there can be no rational doubt whatever. No one can read Mr. Stil son's stalement of the matter without a full conviction of its perfect truth. He says that he speaks on the direct authority of the President he would not dare to say this if it were not true. Neither General Grant nor any ne assuming to speak in his name has regard it then, as an established fact that the General made a specific and direcpremise to the Pr sid at in regard to a natter of very great public importance, and deliberately violated it. He proved simself no true other or man. He showed himself capable of treachery, involving falsehood. He cannot extricate himself or be extricated by his friends from his legraceful position. It is evident that an insane rage for the Presidency has as full possession of him as the devils had of the herd of swine, and that he has no ightcous moral quality strong enough to enable him to withstand any unworthy temptation that may beset him. He has done some good service and some poor ervice-he isn't fit to be President.

And Gen. Grant was staggering apon the streets of Washington the other even ing under the influence of whiskey, the same influence that came so very near giving the battle of Shiloh to the South. We refer reluctantly to such things, but the community, when they consider how often and with what malice the radical organs constantly refer to Andrew Johnson's infortunate aberration on the day of his inauguration, and with what bitterness they charge him now with a vice from which he is as free as any gentleman in the nation, must and will say that we are right. Gen. Grant has been a much hard er drinker than ever Mr. Johnson was, and he still sticks to his bad habit. What would not the radical organs say if the President, instead of Gen. Grant, had been recently seen reeling along the streets of the capital? Gen. Grant won't do. He may have his rirtnes, but his mad passion for the Presi dency impels him to prevaricate, equivo cate, and break his personal faith, and, it ais exultation at what he considers his great prospects, he indulges freely in an old vice from which he will never escape.

The "painted cell" in the Eastern prentiary has long been a feature of as uing interest to the visitors of that mod el prison. An Austrian named Charles Lageuheim, couvieted of burglary, was seutenced to a term of imprisonment in dis institution. His experience was that of every other convict when consigned t a living grave. At first there feil upon his spirit the horrors of isolation from his species. Then comes, as a matter of course, a demand for occupation. The severest punishment that can be visited upon a convict is to deprive him of his imple-ments of labor. A luzy mau who is at liberty looks upon toil with utter distaste, when incorrectated in a solitary cell he craves it, as the only means to prevent his brains from becoming addled. Langenheim, during his long term of imprisonment, was permitted, from the of water colors and pencil brushes. He elaborately painted the interior of his cell in a design that, upon a large and extended scale, would have adorned a cathedral or a temple. For seven long years he spent his leisure time at this work. Dickos, on his first visit to this country, was ens, on his real visit to this country, was shown this curiosity, and in his "Amer can Notes" he makes allusion to it. Lar genheim served out his term of imprisor ment, was liberated, and again convicte and sentenced for burglary. At his carnest pleu, he was placed in another ce in the same prison, and npon its white washed walls he sgain executed the won derful work, making a fac simile of stained glass such as had marked his first

THE MANUFACTURE OF TOYS IN EUROPE.

AN INTELESTING CHAPTER FOR THE YOUNG

AND THE OLD. The Paris correspondent of the London

France and Germany are the chief con pessants of Saxon Switzerland spend their winter evenings in cutting ont the immense supply of farm yards and their appropriate animals, soldiers of every nation, and household implements of every kind, which, dispatched to Paris from Olbernan in fragile wooden boxes, are sold for two or three francs. Beasts, covered with velvetty coats, colored according to the animal, are made at Rodach, toys in percelain at Ondrans; whilst the haby dolls simply attired come from Sonnenberg, Neustadt, and Wallerhausen. Man made in plaster are dispatched to as from made in plaster are dispatched to us from Prussia (en attendant, their originals sent free of expanse by M. de Bismarck), whilst leaden soldiers, measuring about an inch in height, painted and heavily armed, or me from Bavaria, Nuremburg, and Furla Household utensils in china—such as pip-kins, saucepans, cups and saucers, dolls' heads in china grows of lette reasured.

The population of that curions old quartier are wholly oc-cupied by toy making, and each workman has his speciality. For instance, the man who makes rabbits striking on a drnm with heir fore-paws makes no other toys. Of these there are annually forty-three thou-saud two hundred sold, prime cost, at four and six pence a dozen. We have all been temporarilly deafened by a child armed with a cat, dog, or sheep mounted on a sort of bellows, which the nrchin pn's close to our ear, and immediately a vil-lainous aqueak sets every nerve in our brain on edge. The construction of these detestable deformities, both in form and sound, occupy as many hands as the agri-culture of the country now demands.

There are six mannfactories of brass rumpets in Paris alone. Two hundred thousand drums are monthly made in this city. Their prime cost is 1s. 3.1 per doz-en, and the supply never equals the de-mand. They are made of oak or beech; the wood employed is sent from Villers

The writer adds:

Of dolls the number is legion. Of dolls the number is legion. One manufacturer alone snaplies the children of this capital with titty thousand per annum; and it would be impossible to detail the scores made of scraps of indefinite materials, put together by poor seamstresses living in garrets, to be sold by womea still poorer, crouched beneath a porte cochere, now shivered by the bitter blast, and a few months hence speched by the and a few months hence scorched by the blazing sun. These dolls for the humble are made by no rule, but the beb's for the rich employ several separate trades. THE MADISON ROBBERY ARREST AND IDI NTIFICATION OF ONE OF

THE THIEVES IN THIS CITY-TURN TO MADISON FOR TRIAL. We have already mentioned the fac

that the extensive jewelry store of Mr. Eaverson, at Madison, Indiana, was broken into last Monday night and robbed of a large amount of assorted jewelry and a safe, containing fine watches, &c. The man James Thompson, whom Lien-tenant Lambourn arrested on Broadway last Thursday, has proved to be one of the parties who committed the robbery at Madison. When arrested he was endeav oring to sell a lot of jewelry to a merchant on Broadway, and stated that he was from Pittsburg, where he had a jewelry store. On closer examination it was found that the prisoner had about five hundred dollars' worth of goods on his person. Capt. Gilchriest took a description of two valuable pieces of the jewelry, and on telegraphing to Mr. Eaverson the descriptions were identified as suiting a portion of the stelen jewelry. Mr. Laverson and his son, accompanied by the town marshal, came to the city yesterday and identified Thompson as a notorious thief of Madison and the property in his possession as a part of that stolen from

The Okolona merchants pay cash for what they huy, and, in proof of this, we have not heard of a single one of them failing in business this season. To the Editors of the Louisville Journal: GENTLEMEN-I notice by the newspapers, that parties from Alahama have started for convicting him to the penitentiary for two Nashville, Lonisville, and Cincinnati, to beg for the starving people of Blount, Marshall, and Jackson counties, in this State. As I possess the most positive evidence that no starvation or destitution prevails in these counties, there must be something wrong in this enterprise, and any contribution for this purpose would be abusing the charity of your citizens. At easttwenty men from these counties have ocen to the land office in the last two weeks, and I have inquired of them all as to the truth of this new fledged scheme, and not only do they deny that destitution in any form exists, but they sparn with contempt this imputation upor their thrift and industry. THE GAS FROM OH LAW 3-IMPORTANCE VENTILATION -The practice of burning common oil lamps in bedrooms is very permicions and dangerous. The gas generated by the lamp is of a poisonous nature, and exceedingly detrimental to health, affecting the lungs very seriously. If the lamp is allowed to burn, as when in common use, the gas is nearly all conumed in the chimney, but when the wick storned down, so as to give but a dim ight in the room, the gas generated is not consumed, but escapes into the room. If the windows and doors of the apartment are tightly closed, as is generally the case the winter season, the occupants cannot escape the injurious effects. If it is necessary to keep a light burning, let the wick he kept fully up, and if there is no tiansom over the door, then by all means more from the top. The practice of reiring to bed, in a c ose room, with an oi lamp dimly burning, is most dangerous, Delicate persons cannot continue the practice long without experiencing the n of serious results. The importance of proper ventilation is not fully understood nd appreciated by the masses, and much uffering is entailed upon humani'y by esthing a ful and poisonous atmosphere, especially in sleeping apartments. The health of children is frequently nined-their constitutions atterly broken lown-by compelling them to sleep in ly ventilated apartments, and the feaof "taking cold," the great bugbear among imid parents, has cost many a child its ife. A fire place (grate) with a fire is a good ventilator, but nothing is equal to the pulling down of the upper sash, which allows the foul and poisonous air to escape—and no room is so close that enough fresh air caunot find its way in through cracks and openings about the joints of doors and windows to supply the place of the escaping vitiated atmosphere. persons have stoves in their sleeping apartments, and they are almost as objectionable as lamps, unless proper ventilation is secured. The opening at the top of the window should be regulated by the degree of cold, as in sharp weather a very small aperture will be sufficient while in milder weather the process of ventilation is less active, and more space is required. Never allow the lower to be raised, as a cold current is thus thrown into the room, and there is danger of the occupant taking cold. The fon! air rises and rests against the ceiling. gradually descending until, if not disharged, it fills the whole room. WASHINGTON, Jan. 31. SENATE.

The Chair laid before the Senate seve ral communications, including a joint resolution from the Ohio Legislature, rescinding the Constitutional Amendment.

Mr. Sherman did not deem it a just expression of the people of Ohio.

Mr. Snmner claimed that it was of no effect, and that the State could not withdraw approval once given.

Mr. Johnson argued the opposite side.

Mr. Sherman called for the reading the resolutions. He could not all in these resolutions to be entered on the juna without making some remarks. That they dd not speak the voi e of the pe ple of Ohio, it was his clear convision. The people of Ohi, in the name so of land rat fied that amen men' y a vote of 1,0, and they ad never a coinded that assent. These res lains were the voice of a partisan pority of the Legisla; re, representing a m.nority of the people, and who were elected on issues entirely different. He was satisfied that the people of Ohio to-day won divide in favor of the constitution a amen ment by 100,000 mejority. Last fall the records never dreamed that the Legisla. d not speak the rule of the pe ple vote in favor of the constitutiona ament ment by 100,000 majority. Last full the people never dreamed that the Legisla lure would take this action that issue they considered settled. When the Legislature of Ohio had submitted to the people the negro-suffrage bill they had unwisely coupled with it a provision distranchising deserters, which was thought, as contended by their opponents, would include many patriotic soldiers. This caused the defeat of the proposition to incorporate universal suffrage in the organic law.

organic law. He believed, although he would not state He believed, although he would not state positively, that the people of Ohio would declare in favor of the general principles of the reconstruction bill. He was satisfied that next fall the people of Ohio would reverse their decision and universal suffrage would be inserted in the Constitution. In addition to all this the manner of opposing these resolutions was most extraordinary, as they had been rushed through without any debate.

Mr. Summer said the action of the Legislature was most unpreced inted, as the ature was most unpreced uted, as the State, having once given its assent to the amendment to the Constitution, had no ower to withdraw it, and the res this legislature were a mere brutum fulmen.

The matter was then referred to the Judiciary Committee.

The bill supplementary to the tenure office bill was taken up. The question was on Mr. Summer's amendment that the bill shall do away with foreign agents in the State Department.

Mr. Patterson moved an amendment that such agents shall not exceed five in num-Mesars. Sumper, Conness, Cameron, Anthony, and Grimes opposed such re-strictions on the part of Congress.

At the expiration of the morning hone the bill was laid aside, and an adjournment till Monday provided for.

Mr. Johnson gave notice that he would not be a side of the world on the side of the side

Mr. Johnson gave notice that he would on Monday press a vote on the case.

Senator Thomas supplementary reconstruction bit was taken up.

Mr. Howe said he should address himself chiefy to the man sets of his colleague Mr. Doolittlel. The opening of that gentleman's remarks was start ug. He said he saw in this supplemental bill the overthrow of republican government in ten of the Southern States, and many other alarming things, but he reminded other alarming things, but he reminded him very much of the Irish memoer. Sr Ivoyle Roche, who said in Parliament: "Mr. Speaker I smell a rat, I see him feating in the air, but I shall nip him in he bud. [Laughter.]

he bud. Laughter.]
There was about as much need for serious alarm in the sentences of the Senator, but the people were quite competent tor, but the people were quite completent or place the proper estimate upon the language he made use of. After alluding to Mr Doolittle's change of course in policies, he wanted to ask where was his colcegnes's commission for standing here in the Senate the champion of the Causasian race. He denies the disloyalty of the whiterace in the South, and says they were dragged into rebelion by a radical minority, and the Caucassion majority were overcome by their leader. Then he terms round and accuses the black men of being rebels. He recounts the losses and sufferings of the whites, and then q otes a historical example in the case of the Roman province of Latim, which rebelled, but was treated by the limperor Camillus with magnanimity after being conquered, and its people were not compelled to submit to the control of their shares. He now contended that no Firms. staves. He now contended that no Em-peror of Rome treated rebels with as much kindness and magnanimity as the United states Government treated Southern

But it was said the Rep blican party wanted to strengthen themselves by en-franchising the blacks and disfranchising the whites. Yet what was to prevent that party from asking these white rebels to come into the organization? The Demo crats had nothing to offer them, for they were poorer than the rebels themselves but no such motive impelled the Republi can party. The supremacy of the government and laws of the United States was the paramount consideration in se-lecting loyal blacks upon whom to confer the right of suffrage. We came to the conclusion that black men should have a voice, a place, in the local government of the South, and we are determined, in the interests of the very integrity of the li-public, that ench consummation shall be effected. Mr. Howe went on at length to government to appoint provisional governments for the Southern States, and treconstruct them in accordance with the Constitution by gnaranteeing to each a republican form of government.

Mr. Howe, in conclusion, said that all on the other side of the chamber had closed their harangues with terrible threats and prophecies of disaster to the Republican party in the coming autumn. He did not fear them. But should it be so the contest would not then be ended. He said no man could conscientiously go other objects in this struggle than those for which the Republican party will vote, and closed by culogizing its efforts hitherto, charging the Democratic party with the entire rasponsibility of the war, and by predicting the success and triumph and windigation of the Congressional solitor. vindication of the Congressional solicy.
Mr. Terry obtained the floor on the bill, but, on motion of Mr. Harlan, the further consideration of the bill was postponed till Monday, and the Senate took up the bill to provide for the formation of corpobill to provide for the formation of corpo-ratione, and the regulation of some in the District of Columbia, which was discussed by Measrs. Johnson, Harlan, Willey, and Conking, the latter condemning it as granting unprecedented license. The bill was amended so as to require the principal offices of corporations to be kept in the District of Columbia, and by making the private property of stockhold-ers in certain cases liable to the amount of the par value of their stock. After further verbal amendments, the bill was further verbal amendments, the bill was passed to a third reading, and Mr. Bucka-

St. Locis, Jan. 31.

St. Louis, Jan. 31. Sr. Louis, Jan. 31.

The Kansas Legislature yesterday passed resolutions asking Congress to aunul the Jay purchase of Cherokee lauds. The resolutions set forth that 20,000 citizens of Kansas are on these lands, and that by the sale these will be onsted from their homes; and the State asks on their behalf to set aside the sale of the Interior Department and allow the settlers to take the lands, or, if that cannot be done, Kansas proposes to buy them for the settlers. a bankrupt. Later from Victoria and Alaska.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31. A Victoria telegram says that a public ecting was held on the 29th, to discuss the expediency of the colony applying for admission to the Dominion of Canada.

A resolution in favor of the construction of a overland wagon road, an essential condition, was unanimously adopted.

A committee was appointed to wait upon the Governor to accertain what progress had been made to take further steps for a union of the colony with the Dominion.
